Greenbaum Announces New Leadership Roles for Jemi Lucey and Dina Vanides in Employment & Family Law Practices

Announcement

9.23.26

Greenbaum, Rowe, Smith & Davis LLP is pleased to announce that partners Jemi Goulian Lucey and Dina M. Vanides have been appointed as practice leaders within their respective areas of expertise.

Jemi joins Maja M. Obradovic as a leader of the firm's employment team, while Dina joins Mark H. Sobel as a leader of Greenbaum's family law group.

Stepping into these leadership roles, Jemi and Dina will be instrumental in driving strategic growth, mentoring talent, and delivering high-caliber legal counsel and client service excellence alongside their practice area co-leaders.

Jemi is an experienced trial attorney and legal counselor who focuses her practice on employment law, complex commercial and business litigation, and higher education law, in state and federal courts. She represents private and public sector clients, including employers, colleges and universities, and business entities operating in a broad range of industries.

Dina is an accomplished matrimonial attorney who has dedicated her legal career exclusively to the complexities of divorce and family law. She is a versatile advocate for her clients, who include high-net-worth individuals. She is a tenacious litigator who is also a highly trained family collaborative lawyer and mediator.

Greenbaum congratulates Jemi and Dina on their well-deserved appointments. To learn more about their work, we invite you to explore our Employment and Family Law practice areas, or reach out to Jemi and Dina directly to discuss how they can assist with your legal needs.
