- Represents clients in all aspects of matrimonial law
- Complex divorces, custody disputes, equitable distribution
- Has played a role in numerous notable published family law decisions

Lisa represents clients in complex divorces, high-conflict child custody and parenting time disputes, and family law appeals, guiding them through each stage of the legal process with steady counsel and a focus on long-term stability. Her practice is centered on the principle that a client's best results are achieved when they are informed, empowered, and secure in their decision-making. By prioritizing clear communication and strategic transparency, Lisa ensures her clients possess the clarity and confidence necessary to navigate their immediate legal challenges while protecting their future interests.

She provides comprehensive counsel on all aspects of matrimonial law, including the negotiation of sophisticated prenuptial agreements, the equitable distribution of marital assets, and post-judgment enforcement. Her expertise includes the modification of alimony obligations based on changed circumstances, such as retirement or cohabitation.

Lisa has been involved in numerous appellate matters and has contributed to notable published family law decisions. She combines strong advocacy and a compassionate, results-oriented approach to achieve family law outcomes that stand the test of time and reduce the likelihood of future litigation.

Experience

Published Cases

- In Lombardi v. Lombardi (2016), assisted in successfully representing the plaintiff in securing a precedential New Jersey Appellate Division decision establishing that regular savings is a component of marital lifestyle and must be considered in calculating alimony. The ruling created statewide uniformity and is routinely cited in contested alimony matters throughout New Jersey.
- In J.B. v. W.B. (2013), assisted in successfully representing the defendant, the mother of a disabled adult, in opposing a former spouse's motion to modify their property settlement agreement and redirect direct child support payments into a special needs trust. The New Jersey Supreme Court affirmed the trial court and appellate division decisions, holding that the father failed to present a specific plan and demonstrate how the proposed plan would benefit the party's disabled child.
